

Virtual National Incident Management System and Incident Command System Trainings

Training Description:

DC Water offers several virtual National Incident Management System (NIMS) and Incident Command System (ICS) opportunities for DC Water employees and our regional response partners. Participants will receive an introduction to NIMS, ICS, and the National Response Framework (NRF). DC Water and other response agencies utilize these systems to manage response to natural, man-made, and technological emergencies. By taking these courses, you can increase your organization's resiliency and response capabilities.
