La Duma rusa pide a Seguridad informes sobre Radio Libertad y Voz de América

Álvaro Alba
mayo 22, 2017

Legisladores rusos acusaron a estos medios de prensa de promover una "guerra informativa" contra Rusia con el fin de garantizar "la dominación global" de EEUU.

Los diputados rusos se reunieron el 19 de mayo para escuchar el resultado de una investigación sobre la Voz de América, Radio Libertad (RFE/RL) y otros medios de prensa occidentales que trabajan desde Moscú.

Tras una sesión donde no faltaron los ataques a la prensa, al Departamento de Estado de EEUU y a las empresas informativas estadounidenses, los legisladores rusos afirmaron que en especial Voz de America y RFE/RL intentaron crear una imagen negativa del sistema electoral de Rusia. Los rusos acusaron a los medios de prensa de promover una "guerra informativa" contra Rusia con el fin de garantizar "la dominación global" de EEUU, informó RFE/RL.

Como instrumentos de esta "guerra" los legisladores rusos señalaron, además de RFE/RL a Internet, y en especial a YouTube.

Britain Irritated by US Intel Leaks

VOA News
May 24, 2017

Britain is criticizing U.S. intelligence officials for leaking information to journalists after a suicide attack Monday in Manchester.

British Home Secretary Amber Rudd said she had lodged a complaint with the United States after details about the Manchester attack were published by U.S. media outlets before being released by British authorities.

"The British police have been very clear they want to control the flow of information in order to protect operational integrity, the element of surprise," Rudd said on BBC Radio 4's Today program.

"So it is irritating if it gets released from other sources, and I have been very clear with our friends that that should not happen again."

Details about the suicide attack, including the death toll and the attacker's identity were published by several U.S. media companies and attributed to anonymous U.S. officials.

Rudd said after the Manchester attack and the subsequent leaking of information, she would review how the country's intelligence is shared. She noted, though, that the leaks had not harmed the British investigation.
